Education

Present Jun 2025	University of New South Wales Ph.D., Computer Science and Engineering • Advisors : Dr. Aditya Joshi, Dr. Padmanesan Narasimhan, Dr. Salil Kanhere. • Funded by the NHMRC Ideas Grant.	Sydney, Australia
Sep 2024 Sep 2022	University of New South Wales M.S., Information Technology, WAM : 81.3. • Advisor : Dr. Aditya Joshi. • Thesis : Training Dialect Adapters for Decoder Models Using Natural Conversations.	Sydney, Australia

Work Experience

May 2025 May 2024	University of New South Wales Researcher/Research Officer • Built the BESSTIE benchmark, a novel dataset spanning sentiment and sarcasm classification across 3 English dialects. This work is funded by Google Research Scholar grant. • Designed and implemented scalable annotation pipelines to collect and validate 12,600 samples from Reddit and Google Places, covering diverse dialects for NLP evaluation. • Evaluated two open-weight LLMs (Gemma, Llama) for dialect robustness using sarcasm explanation generation, with statistically significant improvements using a pragmatic reasoning-based prompting strategy. • Audited GPT-based models for translation of school communication across 22 languages, using performance metrics such as BLEU, chrF, and ROUGE. • Mentored undergraduate students through the UNSW Taste of Research program, guiding them in literature reviews, controlled experimentation, and research writing. • Presented work at the UNSW AI Symposium 2024, showcasing practical contributions of dialect-aware LLM evaluations.	Sydney, Australia
